Kyoto to enjoy red leaves season

In Japan, there are two seasons is the most beautiful season of flowering cherry and red leaf season. When the autumn, forests move from green to red identity.

Travel to see the autumn leaves change color is the main tourist resources in Japan. You can do a tour to the ancient capital of Kyoto - which still retain their unique traditions of the country Phu Tang. Built stereotyping by design "chessboard" of the sole capital Chang'an in China, with the best feng shui position of the ancient city of origin Phu Tang, Kyoto became the first capital of Japan in 794.

There are no skyscrapers, the modern amusement park, Kyoto attracts tourists by the traditional culture be nurtured throughout more than 1,000 years, expressed by temples, shrines appearance; the traditional festivals ...

The oldest of them must talk to Kiyomizu temple is located on hilly Otowa large and well known for three series of small extractor discharge from the cliffs, representing three human desires: love, health and money.

In the fall, Kiyomizu as textile clothing coats broken by thousands like the red maple leaves, yellow leaves, and empty the leaves grow scattered around the temple precincts. This is also the tourist season to cross the context largest temple, standing on a hilltop overlooking the valley and ridge on the other side, admire the beauty of Kyoto excellency excellent room flooded in red.

If you do not forget to visit Kyoto Kinkaku-ji (Kim The order also called Golden temple) to admire the vibrant beauty of the temple roof garden of the Golden Pavilion boasts sun, reflected on the sparkling water.

Initially, the temple is only the second floor roof and third floor of the Golden Pavilion Kinkaku-ji leaves, but after the first major restoration in the late 19th century, the entire surface and exterior surface of the block architecture of this massive three-storey are glittering Golden Pavilion, turn here into one of the most attractive sights origin Phu Tang.

(Source: Saigon Times)